Capcom renews IR/Corporate Homepage to meet the Japanese Industrial Standards.

- Strengthens accessibility and usability features such as voice browser friendly to the elderly and people with disabilities -

Capcom is pleased to announce that we renewed our investor relations and corporate homepage (“IR site”) to meet Japanese Industrial Standards (“JIS”).

We firmly believe in its responsibility as a publicly traded company to disclose relevant information in a timely manner to shareholders and investors. One of our priorities in IR activities is to strengthen information disclosure practices in our homepage. In order to enable us to implement this objective, we have always striven to uphold strict disclosure standards.

In this website renewal, to enable information to be easily accessible to the elderly and people with disabilities, we have improved and added website accessibility features to meet JIS X 8341-3 "Guidelines for older persons and persons with disabilities --Information and communications equipment, software and services --Part 3: Web content" regulated JIS. In particular, we have improved on voice-related functions for voice-enabled browsers specifically with consideration to the elderly and functions for automatic change in character font size to improve readability.

To improve the user-friendliness of the website, we have optimized our search engine system (SEO) to reflect more accurate search results the user wishes to retrieve from the keywords entered. We have also introduced advanced web technology such as the distribution of financial results presentation in flash video format.

In addition, in an effort to strengthen our website content, we have updated corporate social responsibility (CSR) pages as well as features that enable the user to calculate Capcom’s stock yield as well as to compare Capcom’s stock price performance with other competitors.

Capcom continues to focus on establishing responsible investor relation practices and procedures to promote timely disclosure in order to improve investor relations and to maintain a high level of transparency in its business practices as a listed company.
