Official Street Fighter 6 World Championship Tournaments

Attract Record-high 20,000 Attendees

- Capcom aims to accelerate growth of the global competitive scene with a larger total prize pool of over $2.1 million in the upcoming 2026 season -

Capcom Co., Ltd. (Capcom) today announced that Capcom Cup 12 and Street Fighter League: World Championship 2025, its official world championship tournaments to determine the top Street Fighter 6 competitors, which were held at Ryogoku Kokugikan Arena from March 11-15, achieved a record-high of 20,000 attendees, concluding with great success.

At Capcom Cup 12, which features matches against individual players, SAHARA (21 years old), who is a first-year professional player, claimed the championship title in his debut appearance, while in the team-based competition Street Fighter League: World Championship 2025, Japanese representatives REJECT were the winning team.

Capcom additionally announced that it will hold next season's Capcom Cup 13 and Street Fighter League: World Championship 2026 at Ryogoku Kokugikan Arena. Furthermore, the company will continue to offer a grand prize of $1 million for Capcom Cup and will increase the total prize pool for Street Fighter League from $200,000 to $400,000. As a result, the total prize pool for Capcom's esports tournaments in the 2026 season will exceed $2.1 million. The company will continue working to further invigorate esports while elevating the global presence of the competitive scene.

Capcom is committed to promoting industry development through building a structure aimed at expanding the esports ecosystem so that fans and competitors alike can enjoy the thrill of competition.
